ORSI Durgapur Chapter

The Operational Research Society of India (ORSI) was founded in 1957. ORSI has sixteen chapters. Head quarter of the society is located in Kolkata. ORSI Durgapur is a very active chapter since the 1970s, started by a group of enthusiasts from the industrial engineering department of DSP, PCBL and NPTI. There are more than 55 members in this chapter presently. Many seminars, conferences, workshops, etc. are organized by this chapter round the year.

Brief Theme of the Programme

The prestige of any journal is considered how many abstracting and indexing services cover that journal.

Authors search the indexed journals to publish their articles. Citation index or indexing is an ordered list of cited articles, each accompanied by a list of citing articles. Abstracting and indexing service is a product, a publisher sells or makes available.

Referencing is a list of the publication information for the sources you have cited in your paper and is intended to give readers all the information they need to find those sources. This list is also called bibliography or works cited page. Referencing can also be described as giving credit with citation to the source of information used in one's work. Referencing helps to relate your own work to previous work.
